SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

Originality Assurance: All contributions must be original and should not be simultaneously under consideration by any other publication. Authors should ensure that their work is unique and has not been previously published elsewhere.

Length Guidelines: Articles submitted for consideration are subject to a maximum word count:

Research articles: Up to 8,000 words, including footnotes.
Reviews: Should not exceed 1,000 words.
Authors should aim to convey their ideas effectively within these limits.

Formatting Specifications:
Manuscripts should be double-spaced.
Use A4 paper size.
Choose the 11-point Palatino Linotype font.
Maintain 2 cm margins around the text.
Ensure consistency in formatting to enhance readability.

Abstract and Keywords:
All research articles must include a 100-200 word English language abstract.
Provide three to six key words that succinctly describe the content.

Citations and References:
Include complete bibliographic references (including page numbers) in footnotes.
Create a separate section at the end of the manuscript for a complete list of references.
For grammar, form, and style, follow The Chicago Manual of Style guidelines:
https://www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/tools_citationguide/citation-guide-1.html

Peer Review Process:
All manuscripts will undergo anonymous double-blind peer review.
Evaluation criteria include creativity, quality of scholarship, and contribution to advancing understanding of relevant regions.

Submission Deadline:
The deadline for submission is June 30, 2021.

Author Guidelines: Authors are kindly requested to adhere to the following checklist to ensure compliance with the submission guidelines:

Originality Assurance:
Submissions must contain original content not concurrently under consideration by any other publication.

Length Guidelines:
Articles: Maximum of 8,000 words (inclusive of footnotes).
Reviews: Should not exceed 1,000 words.

Formatting Style:
Format your manuscript as follows:
Title: Palatino linotype 16, UPPERCASE with dropcap, bold, justify;
Authors and Affiliation: Palatino linotype 16, lowercase, italic, justify. Using a full first name helps to ensure that a name will not be conflated with another in bibliographic listings and library catalogs.

Example: Rodica-Mariana Ion.

Institution the author(s) belong to and contact should be inserted down the name of the author(s): Palatino linotype 10, lowercase, justify;

Example: Valahia University of Targoviste, E-mail: firstname.name@valahia.ro.

Acknowledgements should be added down the institution: Palatino linotype 10, Sentence case, justify:

Example: This paper has been presented at the First Annual International KreativEU Conference, under the theme “Heritage, Science, and Technologies for Sustainable Preservation,” organized by Valahia University of Targoviste and the Knowledge & Creativity European University under the patronage of The National Commission of Romania for UNESCO, KreativEU UNESCO UNITWIN Network for Heritage Preservation, Science, and Communication for Sustainable Communities, and the International Council for Philosophy and Human Sciences / Conseil International de la Philosophie et des Sciences Humaines, Abstract: Palatino linotype 10, lowercase, italic, justify; maximum length 100 to 200 words.

Example: This study delves into the genetic composition of individuals associated with Neolithic megalithic monuments across Europe, aiming to unravel the origins and preservation of European cultural heritage. Through genomic analysis of skeletal remains from key sites, we elucidate the population dynamics and genetic affinities of ancient builders and inhabitants. Our findings highlight patterns of genetic continuity and discontinuity, shedding light on migration events and cultural exchanges during the Neolithic period. Moreover, we assess the impact of environmental and socio-cultural factors on the genetic diversity observed in these populations. This research contributes to a deeper understanding of the interconnectedness between genetics and cultural heritage, emphasizing the importance of interdisciplinary approaches in heritage conservation and management strategies.

Keywords: Palatino linotype 10, lowercase, justify; three to six keywords;

Example: genomic analysis; neolithic monuments; European heritage; genetic diversity; cultural exchange; conservation strategies.

Body text: Palatino linotype 11, lowercase, justify, first line 1,27 cm; maximum length 8,000 words (including footnotes);

Subheads: Palatino linotype 12, lowercase, justify, bold;

Tables, charts, images (Please, pay attention to the copyright!) should be consistent throughout the manuscript;

A text reference is addressed to the reader ("Table 1", "Chart 3", "Fig. 9" etc.);
We accept both manuscripts with the tables, charts, images placed where they are meant to appear or grouped as a separate file with callout inserted in the manuscript. A callout is an instruction, which will not appear in the manuscript, telling where a table or an illustration is to appear. In the manuscript, a callout should be enclosed in angle brackets or some other delimiter and placed on a separate line following the paragraph in which the table or illustration is first referred to (“<table 5 here>”; “<fig. 3.2 here>”)
Each of them should be numbered, contain a short description and the source.

Footnotes: Will follow the rules of The Chicago Manual of Style;
Font: Palatino linotype 9, lowercase, justify;
Should be inserted automatically with insert footnote;
When a note includes a quotation, the source normally follows the terminal punctuation of the quotation. The entire source need not be put in parentheses, which involves changing existing parentheses to brackets and creating unnecessary clutter.

References: is used here to denote the full list of books, articles, archives and other references that appear in a work using footnotes for citation. The references should be divided into sections and listed in alphabetic order.

Sections of references: example: archives, interviews, newspapers, books and articles, web postings.

Proofreading:
Please, pay attention that the language in which you submit the article is checked before submission. A proofreading of the article is also arranged by the editorial college but only in case of articles that fulfill the language quality criteria.
Please submit your paper to gafencu@valalia.ro.
Please note that the journal does not impose any article submission charges or article processing fees.
Remember to follow these guidelines carefully to ensure a smooth submission process!
